Hi Francine,

Just got off the phone with the inspector for Ghoreyshi. They have ordered a new survey for that side yard wall that protrudes out on the El Medio side to determine where the original grade was. If it is non compliant, they will have them lower it. They confirmed that the perpendicular wall in front is to code from the original grade. Their measurement is even lower than our 6 ft.

As for the chimneys they remeasured those and even with the vents are to code. They say they are not decorative at this point because the vents are built into them and they cannot change the vents at this point. He also said, "the chimneys were approved and are on the plans." I explained the situation a bit but he repeated that they are compliant.

The CofO is not being held up. They are waiting for a sign off from Dwp for storm water testing and now will wait for a survey from the wall.

In my opinion if we go after Ghoreyshi he will sue us. So, guess you would have to decide who you would rather be sued by.

Kim
